

HISPANIC/LATINX CALL TO ACTION:

Addressing the Impact of HIV, Hepatitis and STIs in Our Communities

March 6, 2018

Eugene McCray, M.D.
Director, Division of HIV/AIDS Prevention
National Center for HIV/AIDS, Viral Hepatitis, STD and TB Prevention
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention
1600 Clifton Road
Atlanta, GA 30329-4027

Dear Dr. McCray,

We hope that you, your family and colleagues are doing well. We know and value your commitment and the efforts of the Division of HIV/AIDS Prevention to mitigate the impact of HIV/AIDS, Sexually Transmitted Infections (STIs) viral hepatitis and the opioid epidemics in our communities. We write as members of the national network of Latino/Hispanic community-based organizations, as well as members of other organizations based in communities of color and organizations in solidarity, to express our serious concerns regarding the impact of HIV/AIDS on the Latino/Hispanic community and particularly to the most vulnerable groups, such as communities of color, young adults, MSM, gay/bisexual men, and transgender women.

First, we thank you for your availability to meet with us during the national conference for the past two years. We recognize the progress toward ending the HIV/AIDS epidemic and accomplishing the goals set forth in the National HIV/AIDS Strategy. We've seen progress at the national level over the past years. Surveillance data shows a decrease in the diagnosis of new HIV infections in 2016, including a decrease in new diagnoses among gay and bisexual men and other men who have sex with men.

As reported by the CDC in 2015, Latino/Hispanics accounted for about one quarter of all new diagnoses of HIV in the United States, despite representing about 18% of the total U.S. population. From 2010 to 2014, the estimated annual HIV infections increased 14% (from 6,400 to 7,300) among Latino/Hispanic gay, bisexual, and other men who have sex with men. Of those, 87% (8,563) were in men, and 12% (1,223) were in women. Gay and bisexual men accounted for 85% (7,271) of the HIV diagnoses among Latino/Hispanic men in 2015. From 2010 to 2014, HIV diagnoses increased 2% among all Latino/Hispanic, but trends varied among subgroups. Diagnoses among young Hispanic/Latino gay and bisexual men (aged 13 to 24) increased 16%.

As observed, the disproportionate impact of HIV among Latino gay and bisexual men and transgender women is a concerning issue within this ethnic group. Whereas many communities throughout the U.S. have seen a decrease in infection rates, many of the most vulnerable Latino/Hispanic communities have seen an increase in HIV infection rates and other STI's. We are deeply concerned with many of the regions that have seen increases in infection rates among members of the Latino community such as the US southeast region and the U.S. territory of Puerto Rico. About seven in ten new HIV diagnoses in Latinos happens among gay and bisexual men, and less than half of those infected with HIV have achieved viral suppression.

We request that the CDC National Center for HIV/AIDS, Viral Hepatitis, STD and TB Prevention call for an internal consultation to explore how the Division of HIV/AIDS Prevention could optimally address the dramatic increase in HIV infections among Latino MSM, YMSM and transgender Latina women. We strongly believe that an internal consultation is necessary to coordinate a national response that will mitigate the impact that these new HIV infections will have on our most vulnerable Latino communities. We would like to begin conversations and facilitate a better public health response to this serious trend of new HIV infections affecting our communities.

Again, we applaud your leadership and progress in confronting the nation's HIV/AIDS health epidemic and urge you bolster this progress with major actions this year to pave the way for a healthy future for vulnerable Latino communities. We would appreciate the chance to hear from you at your earliest convenience. Please contact Oscar Lopez (oscarlopez@valleyaids.org), Oscar De La O (odelao@bienestar.org), Jose Joaquin Mulinelli (coai05@gmail.com), or Guillermo Chacón (gchacon@latinoaids.org) with suggestions to further discuss this public health crisis. If you have any questions do not hesitate to contact us.

Sincerely,
